

Highlights

- Forest cover change can impact streamflow
- Meta-analysis to extend of experimental data to global scales is complex
- Assessment method has a major impact on the streamflow change
- Summarizing studies to single values introduces errors and loses information